

Our society has changed. The joint family system has almost ceased to exist. And often, children and parents live separately after the parents retire.

Due to such changes in society, people often wonder what will happen to their assets after they have passed on. No one wants to leave a mess behind. But with them gone, how will the assets be distributed by their heirs amongst themselves? Could it lead to misunderstanding or friction? The problem becomes more nagging because our assets are also scattered and we ourselves are not sure what we could be leaving behind!

India does not yet have a will culture. In the old joint-family system, there was no need for it. But now, many people want to prepare and leave behind a will. But they don't know how to prepare one. We at State Bank of India therefore thought that we should help our pensioners/ Customers by coming out with a booklet which can guide them and also double up as a will.

The booklet that you hold in your hand is our effort to be of service to you. Although we have prepared it in consultation with our Law Department, we would urge you to show it to some advocate whom you trust and satisfy yourself.

With warm regards,

(Dinesh Kumar Khara) Chief General Manager

We acknowledge the contribution of Sri Ramesh P. Gokhale, Asst. General Manager (Pension, Provident Fund and Gratuity Department) and Sri K. Chandrasekaran, Assistant, General Manager (Law) in preparation of this booklet.
